THE CRAIGIE LAW TESTED.

Judge Ewart Orders Judge Timlake to Remove Southern's Suit.

Raleigh Times-Visitor.

The railroads and the Craigie Law have for the first time been brought face to face in North Carolina and the probabilities are that the constitutionality of this law will be determined before the suit which was brought on the test, is terminated.

The administrator of W. A. Mowery, who was killed on the Western road about a year ago, says the Salisbury Truth-Index of yesterday has sued the Southern for $30,000. The suit was to have been tried at this term of Rowan Superior Court, under the provisions of the Craigie act, which domesticates all foreign corporations and prevents the removal of suits against them and other common carriers to the Federal Court.

When the case came up for trial in this court last week, Captain Charles Price, counsel for the Southern, presented to Judge Timlake an order from Judge Ewart removing the case to the federal court.

Hon. Lee S. Overman, of the counsel for the plaintiff, objected. He contended that the law of the state, according to the terms of the Craigie act is plain and that no state judge can disregard it.

Judge Timlake took the matter under advisement and will render his opinion in the matter this week.

It is an interesting case in that it will probably be made a test case.

Why Mr. Stinson Regretted the Loss of the Tooth.

Monroe Journal.

One day last week while Mr. D. D. Stinson, of Indian Trail, was repairing a wagon wheel a piece of wood flew up and struck him in the mouth, knocking out his most highly prized tooth. Perhaps, from an intrinsic point of view the tooth was not worth more than others, but it is from the standpoint of sentiment that Mr. Stinson so much regrets his misfortune.

It was during the civil war. Mr. Stinson was a prisoner at Point Lookout eighteen months. The tooth was decaying and dentists were not to be had. The emergency of the war gave rise to many different expedients.

Mr. Stinson was equal to the occasion. He secured an awl and file and a little piece of power. With these instruments, this material and a looking glass, with his own hands, Mr. Stinson bored and filled the tooth, and for thirty-six years it had been doing valuable service in the mastication of food. Mr. Stinson has a right to regret his untimely accident.

Terrible Accident Near Salisbury.
Salisbury Truth-Index.

A deplorable accident occurred Saturday night that cost the life of a four-year-old son of Mr. John B. Kern, who lives near Salisbury, his life.

It is the same sad tragedy that has been enacted day after day before.

Shortly after supper Saturday evening at about 8:30 o'clock the two boys—Mr. Kern's little son and the son of the stockkeeper at Mr. D. L. Arroy's—went up stairs in Mr. Kern's home and began playing with the gun in the room. They had only been in the room a short while when the report of a gun was heard and the parents of the little boy were horrified on rushing to the room to find the little fellow prostrate with an ugly hole in his throat just under the chin.

Death was instant. The contents of the gun had entered the child's throat and his face was blackened by the powder. It was at a very close range and the one shot went true to the mark.

The unfortunate victim of the accident—Alvin Kern—was a bright and precocious little fellow of four years. His stricken father and mother have the sympathy of all their friends and acquaintances in their grief and bereavement.

COL. W. P. WOOD FOR STATE SECRETARY.

A Strong Endorsement of the Ashboro Mass.

To the Editor of the Telegram: Randolph county will place the name of her favorite son, Col. W. P. Wood, before the state convention for the nomination for secretary of state.

In so doing we feel that a stronger man cannot be found in the state. Ever since the war, at the sacrifice of business interests, he has been a leader in this section in the fight for good government, and has never asked anything at the hands of the party. He is a successful business man, and would ably represent that large class of our citizenship who have always come to the rescue when the best interests of the state and her institutions were in jeopardy. No class of people are more unselfish in their patriotism than the business men of North Carolina, and it is nothing but right and just to them that one of their number should be chosen for this position.

Col. Wood is an elegant christian gentleman, pure in his private life, of splendid business capacity, an active, aggressive campaigner, and an eloquent, forceful speaker. No better man could be found for the position. Nominate him, and North Carolina has never had a better officer than the secretary of state will be for the next four years.

Yours very truly,
Wiley Rish.

GOOD REPORT OF MR. KLUTZ.

THE AMENDMENT IN HIS DISTRICT WILL BE BIG.

All Democratic Members From This State Will be Returned.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Representative Klutz, North Carolina, has just returned from a trip to his home at Salisbury. The congressman arrived in Washington Sunday morning, and was in his seat in the house of representatives on Monday. His trip to Salisbury was merely on business, and had no reference to politics. BOER POSITION CAPTURED.

Boer Now Dominates The Boer Heavy Artillery.

London, Feb. 28.—The war office has received a dispatch from Buller announcing the capture of Pieter's Hill, the enemy's main position, yesterday. This is six miles from Casser's Camp, along the Colenso River. Near it was the enemy's main position. Buller now dominates the heavy Boer artillery on Balmans Hill, five miles from Pieter's Hill.

London, Feb. 28.—The Queen has called General Buller as follows: "I have heard with the deepest concern of the heavy losses sustained by my brave Irish soldiers, and I desire to express my sympathy and admiration for the splendid fighting qualities they have exhibited throughout these trying operations."

Cape Town, Feb. 28.—There are six hundred Boer prisoners at Modder river; kept under a guard in a wire enclosure. Many of them surrendered Friday.

Mr. VanNoppen Lectures in Winston.

Over three hundred people heard Mr. Chas. L. VanNoppen deliver an interesting and instructive lecture at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium last night on "The South African Question."

Mr. VanNoppen is a pleasing and entertaining talker. He treated his subject in an impartial manner and convinced his hearers that he has given his question deep research and close study. He exhibited a map and spoke of the early history of the Transvaal. He expressed the opinion at the close of the lecture that the Boers would ultimately win in their fight.

The officers of the association are delighted with the success that attended the first of a series of free lectures for the benefit of its members, subscribers and others who wish to be entertained.

Rev. Dr. L. W. Crawford, editor of the Christian Advocate, is an admirer of Cronje. Inquiring for "news" this morning, he remarked: "Cronje has added a new chapter to the history of mankind. He will go down as one of the great men of the times."

North Carolina Will Lead.

A man in the cotton mill business expressed the opinion to the Telegram today that when the cotton mills now projected in North Carolina were completed this state would have not only more mills but more spindles and looms as well, than any state in the South—South Carolina now has fewer mills but more spindles and looms.

Adjusting a Loss.

Charlotte News.

Mr. J. N. Longest, of Greensboro, is in Charlotte today for the purpose of adjusting the claim of Mr. S. Witkowski against the Southern Stock Mutual of Greensboro. The company has a risk on the building of Mr. Witkowski on West Trade which was formerly the Dairy Kitchen.

Smallpox Comes High.

The county commissioners, in special session yesterday audited accounts amounting to $1,516 83—all incurred by the presence of smallpox. More accounts on the same line are yet to be audited, and several thousand dollars' worth have already been settled.

How It Strikes Him.

Raleigh Press-Visitor.

The Greensboro Telegram is discussing the subject: "Will the Women go to the Trenches," which reminds one of the statement of Dr. Broughton, to the effect that the fair sex as well as the stronger sex is on the road to the trenches.

Porto Rico Bill Doubtful.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The passage today of the Porto Rico tariff bill is in doubt. A strong possibility of defeat stares the republicans in the face, while democrats and a few republicans are awaiting every move lest the bill should pass. The friends of the bill claim a majority.

Minstrels Last Night.

Gorton's Minstrels gave a fair show to a fairly good house last night. The academy was a little chilly enduring of the performance. The managers did everything that could be done to heat the building, keeping a steady fire for over twelve hours before the performance. Hot brick were also brought in.

Smith & Murchison Assigned.

Late yesterday afternoon an assignment was made by Smith & Murchison, grocers. The Greensboro Loan & Trust Co., was appointed trustee, and an inventory is being taken today. Until that is done, an accurate statement of the assets cannot be made. It is estimated the liabilities will amount to about $200, while the assets will probably reach $1,200.

This failure is much regretted as the young man was very popular. Poor collections is given as the cause for the assignment, and it is thought had their creditors given a little more indulgence they would have pulled through all right.

THE STORY OF THE SURRENDER.

MEETING OF CRONJE AND ROBERTS DIGNIFIED AND GRACIOUS.

The Frightful Condition of the Boer Camp—Festering Corpses in The Sun.

Paardeburg dispatch to London News.

Cronje sent an officer to the British lines at dawn this morning with a flag of truce. The officer said he had a message for the British general in command. He was taken to Lord Kitchener, to whom he said General Cronje was willing to surrender, having found his position untenable, and only death or capture in prospect if he continued to fight. He wished to avoid useless shedding of blood and to save his women and children. He asked that they be given a safe conduct.

General Kitchener granted the request, so far as the women and children were concerned, but insisted that the surrender in all other respects be absolutely unconditional. To this Cronje agreed.

The Boer commander at once left his laager and escorted by a half dozen soldiers, entered the British lines. He was met by General Kitchener, who immediately brought him to the headquarters of Lord Roberts. The greeting between the rival generals was friendly and courteous. The Boer general was greatly surprised by the ease with which the surrender was effected.

The condition of affairs in the camp of the Boers was something frightful. They had run entirely out of food, except the few that were left in the British hands. The Boers were badly damaged by the British fire. Most of their wagons were burned. The laager was strewn with corpses of the dead, lying in the broad light, unburied and festering. The wounded were in a awful plight. The hospital corps was insufficient to attend to them and they lay about the laager in heaps, some crying piteously, others shrieking in their pain, many silently enduring their agonies.

British troops, immediately on taking possession of the laager, were ordered by Lord Roberts to devote their attention to succoring the wounded and burying the dead, as well as caring for the women and children, who, panic-stricken and in expectation of some awful punishment, could hardly be induced to accept kindness or aid from their conquerors. The British commissary was tax d to its utmost to give immediate relief to the sufferers, but everything is being done to alleviate the condition of their captives.

It is believed that the surrendered force will number between 7,000 and 8,000 combatants. Besides these there are over 1,000 women and children and Kaffir laborers and members of the Red Cross relief corps.

A Faithless Bride Sure.

Salisbury Index.

The matrimonial experience of Obidiah Beaver, a respectable and well-to-do citizen of the China Grove vicinity, has been brief—exceedingly brief—but exciting. The proverbial and threadbare broom handle myth is not in it with Mr. Beaver's real experience. He is a groom of four days and departed.

Last Thursday night, our representative at China Grove phones Mr. Miss Lottie Cress and Mr. Beaver were married. So far as deponent sayeth there was no ruffian to disturb the serenity of their honeymoon until this morning.

John Miller (unknown to the writer but evidently possessed of a poetic eye) prevailed on Mr. Beaver to journey with him to a warmer clime. They accordingly came to Salisbury and at last accounts were speeding southward on the vestibule. Mr. Beaver is endeavoring to locate the erring pair by wire.

Mrs. Beaver comes of an excellent family.

Roberts Has 5,000.

London, Feb. 28.—With six hundred prisoners reported at Kimberley, Roberts' prisoners now number nearly 5,000.

Mrs. Calvin Zimmerman, Milesburg, Pa., says: "As a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup and sore throats One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled."

This failure is much regretted as the young man was very popular. Poor collections is given as the cause for the assignment, and it is thought had their creditors given a little more indulgence they would have pulled through all right.

DR. MOTT ON MANUFACTURING

The Difference in Value of Money Will Carry Business to China.

Washington Post.

Dr. J. J. Mott, of Statesville, N. C., who is prominent in the politics of that state, is at Raleigh.

"There is a strong expansion feeling in the southern states," said he. "Owing to the low price of cotton for many years past the great disparity between the raw material and the manufactured goods has made enormous profits for the mills. The result is that every dollar in the south and all the money and credit that could be reached outside has gone into mill building. There is an air of prosperity around the mills, of course, and there is more business, but the cotton farmer has not been affected by it yet. There is a better price for cotton this year, but the crop is proportionately shorter. So the farmer is no better off than he was last year, having to pay high prices for everything he has to buy."

"Under the open door policy and through expansion the increased value of China as a manufacturing good produced in this country would bring to mind the advantage of manufacturing these same goods in China because, for one thing, of the difference in the money systems of the two countries. By buying money metal in this market and coining it under Chinese laws the difference in the price of a dollar's worth of the metal here and the purchase of labor for the same amount of the metal there would favor moving the mills."

"These things have been considered by the southern advocates of expansion. In the south, though, the betterments which are eventually to ensue under expansion and through cotton manufacturing will be realized before any movement in manufacturing in China could affect the south. The south will become rich before the disadvantageous results of cheaper labor and a difference in money values could be brought into operation to interfere."

"Following the expansion policy, a change by the governments of this country and of Europe as to their money systems may be looked for. These civilized countries must have an outlet for their manufactured products. That outlet is with a people of greater numbers than all civilized countries combined, a people set in their ways. The necessity therefore of conforming to a money system which is equal in its operation will be obvious."

Still Smoking Twelve Years After.

The man had been absent from New York for a number of years. During his absence many changes had taken place. Some of his friends had moved away and some had died. Though he had taken the New York papers pretty regularly, he had not kept up with these friends of his as he should have done.

One evening he called upon a woman friend who was living at a hotel. Arrived at her rooms, he found her surrounded by a crowd of people, but he finally reached her and shook her by the hand.

"You are just the same," he said admiringly. "You haven't changed a particle," which was not at all true, for her hair had turned so white that she had the air of a marquis in some old picture. "And your husband, too," he went on, "he is just the same as ever. I saw him just now down in the lobby. He was smoking."

The woman looked a trifle startled for

AN ABSURD SCHEME REVIVED.

The papers contain a Washington note to the effect that Congressman Linney, of the Eighth North Carolina district, is about to introduce a bill in the House to have the names of Confederate soldiers placed upon the pension rolls of the United States. We have always regarded Mr. Linney as a man of sense, except when acting on a question of partisanship, at which time he turns his sense out to graze like a wild animal. This move must be one of politics. It could not be for the love of the Confederate soldier that he is acting, neither can it be from any special admiration of logic that he could advocate such a preposterous and inconsistent proposition. The congressman evidently has his weather eye open to the probable value of such action in his next campaign. The pension list is a wonderful institution in making and holding votes, and the congressman would, no doubt, like to have a few Confederate votes brought to him by way of those phlegmatic rolls as well as those of the defenders of the Union who might be scattered hereabouts.

This is no new scheme. It is perennial and sometimes semi-annual. There are as just two things left the Confederate soldier, his record and his honor; the first is history and will speak for itself; the last a sacred sentiment, too holy for the touch of the politician. When one of these gentlemen attempt to lay hands upon it by way of a seductive pension scheme, that scheme should be spurned. The Confederate soldier, acting upon what we believe the correct interpretation of the compact between the States, fought for his State because she deemed it wise to exercise her rights of withdrawing. He therefore fought to bring up the Union. The war and its results upon the constitution made the Confederate soldier a rebel so far as subsequent events are concerned. In other words the government of the United States declared him a rebel, and now, in the face of that, to go and pension him would be the most rank inconsistency and utter absurdity. And of course if it's ever done it will be as a matter of politics, and even for this it could not be accomplished, for there is in the way that huge, insatiable hungry, omnivorous herd, the Grand Army of the Republic. It camps every day, and every night of the year on the scent of the United States treasury, and were a rival admitted to its golden privileges, the snapping and snarling would shake mother earth. It is a foolish, absurd scheme.

JAS. G. BLAINE ON A VITAL QUESTION.

In the list of America's great and patriotic men must be written indelibly the name of James G. Blaine. The present administration might do well to take to heart his position on the vital question of the construction and control of the Nicaragua canal. In an editorial in the Washington Post we find some very apt quotations from Mr. Blaine, then secretary of state, on this subject. The Panama route was then being discussed. Says the Post: "In the very inception of the Panama canal project, Mr. Blaine, then secretary of state, took occasion to communicate to our minister to Great Britain some vigorous ideas, and it is clear that there may be no misunderstanding on the part of our powers be sent a copy to every American minister in Europe. In this dispatch Secretary Blaine said that the great powers of Europe might possibly be considering, in connection with the proposed Panama canal, the subject of jointly guaranteeing the neutrality of that waterway. He served notice on the world that such joint action was entirely unnecessary, calling attention to the fact that by the treaty between the United States and Nicaragua, now Colombia, this country guaranteed 'positively and exclusively' the perfect neutrality of the isthmus and of any interoceanic communications that might be constructed upon or over it. This American guarantee was, in the opinion of Secretary Blaine, neither to be interfered with nor supplemented by any other nation."

That is the tone that suits the American ear, and it has the rattle which Europe needs to hear. The United States must guard zealously its right to dictate the policy which these powers shall pursue towards the countries of this continent. Once grant that any privileges and we will have trouble. Better follow Mr. Blaine's way of telling them flat-footed what will and what will not be tolerated. We do not know the reasons of Mr. Hay for his treaty. They doubtless seem all important to him, but it does seem that the only correct position is that assumed by Mr. Blaine, and that absolutely gives the European powers no opening into our position of virtual protectorship of the Americas as a corollary of our doctrine of self-defense.

Brave, magnificent Cronj! Great in action, great in defeat. From February 18th to the 27th he battled with his courageous band of 7,000 or 8,000 against Robert's 40,000 of 45,000. Though in sympathy with the British cause, one cannot withhold sincere admiration for the noble devotion and the gallant fighting of the Boers.

There is something in the news of the frightened condition of the minds of the Boer women and children, when in terror, they awaited some awful punishment at the hands of their British captors, that suggests that they had been fed pretty much on the same stories regarding the English as our present Filipino wards had been told about the Americans, the lightest of which was that an American could eat a Filipino baby with relish.

It is to be hoped that Senator Platt will be refused admission into the United States senate. The legislature of his state failed to elect a senator, and the governor reappointed Mr. Platt. The senate should not endorse this scheme, for the reason that it opens up a new field for corruption. If it once sets the precedent, the efforts of the manipulators will be to prevent an election by a legislature in order that the governor may put in a man suitable to the schemers. It is a bad business.

Today the English people and their sympathizers all over the world are shouting praises of General Roberts, "our Bob." And doubtless the old soldier's heart is swelling with pride as he hears their echoes and as it did when he received a message from his queen congratulating him on his success. And maybe for the moment he has forgotten the death of his son, killed in battle before the father reached Africa—his joy, his hope, his pride. Maybe this stroke helps him to realize what war is, and perhaps, by reason of it, he is more careful of the lives of other men's sons. Glory and tears, praise and heartaches, are ever the products of war.

SMALLPOX SITUATION.

Dr. Lewis Says the Disease is Not Being Stamped Out.

Raleigh Post.
The month of February has witnessed no change in the condition of the outbreak of smallpox in the state.

Dr. R. H. Lewis, the secretary of the State Board of Health, said yesterday that the disease had as strong a foothold as ever. During the month new cases have been reported in Orange and one or two other counties. The outbreak in several counties west of Raleigh, Dr. Lewis said, is directly traceable to forces of hands working for the Postal Telegraph Company. They spread the disease in Orange, Dr. Lewis stated, and are now in Alabama.

"People over the state continue to diagnose smallpox as chicken pox," Dr. Lewis said. "The disease cannot be stamped out so long as such conditions prevail. Other names for smallpox, which some persons are even inclined to accept are 'elephant itch' and 'Georgia bumps.'"

A Physician in Eastern Carolina, who has a state-wide reputation, a few weeks since declared that a smallpox patient had elephant itch. Fortunately the county authorities took the advice of other physicians who diagnosed the case smallpox. Dr. Lewis stated yesterday that there is no such disease as "elephant itch."

Judge Allen Favors a Short Session.

Raleigh Post.
Speaking of the adjourned session of the General Assembly in June, Judge Wm. R. Allen, of Wayne, who is one of the prominent members of the House, said last night that he did not believe the members would remain here any considerable length of time. "As for myself," Judge Allen said, "I am willing to remain here as long as it is necessary for the transaction of public business, but I am not willing to stay here a day to transact private business. There are matters of public interest that will require our attention and I think we should attend to these and go home."

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Benick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, Ohio, after suffering months from rectal fistula, he would be cured unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the great cure on earth, and the balative in the world. 25 cents a box, sold by C. E. Holton, druggist.

An honest man will always call a spade a spade; And when he tells you that a bill is paid it's paid.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

PINKED THE TEN SPOT.

A Trick at Cards That Fooled Those Who Watched It.

"I saw a man do a trick with cards once," said Godfrey Ashton of Atlanta, "which, although he assured me was wholly a trick and that there was no second sight or mind reading connected with it, has always rested in an unexplained condition in my mind. There were four of us at supper, and the man in question sent for a pack of cards, and, handing them to the man next him, told him to select a card in his mind; not to take it from the pack, but to tell the other two men what card it was. He was to shut the pack and pass it to the other two men, who were each to thoroughly shuffle it. The last man was then to place it on the floor. "In the meantime a large capkin had been tightly bound over the magician's eyes and his dress coat hung over his face with the tails tied under his chin, so that his head was to all intents and purposes in the dark. By his direction we were led to the pack of cards and his hand placed upon it. He then proceeded to scatter the cards about until they covered a rough circle of three or four feet in diameter. He called for a knife, and, bringing it sharply down, drove it through and affixed one of the scattered cards. Removing his headgear, he asked what card my friend had chosen. The answer being the ten of diamonds, he turned the knife toward us, and there, sure enough, was the ten of diamonds transfixed upon the point. "He swore it was a trick, but for the life of me I cannot see how it was done. None of us was in collusion with him. I am sure the cards were not a fake pack, and I am equally certain that he was so bluffed that it was wholly impossible for him to see. He accomplished it exactly as I tell you."—New York Tribune.

HELPED DEWEY OUT.

How a Russian Baroness Prompted Him to a Compromise.

Dewey once attended a wedding breakfast at which the affable Baroness de Strunoff, wife of the Russian minister at that time, was present. Dewey had met this famous woman several times before. The facial plainness of the baroness was quite beyond belief, but she was one of the most brilliant, lovable and kindly women ever elected to guide the social affairs of the diplomatic corps in Washington. A lady who overheard it tells of an amusing passage which the baroness and Dewey, who, if memory serves, was then a commander, had at this particular wedding breakfast. "Referring to leather," said the baroness, "I have seen you play on the piano to the spick and span polish of Dewey's sword belt—he was in dress uniform—the most remarkable bit of Russian leather in the world is my face." Dewey was always a quick thinker, but this stalled him. "Madam," he said after a pause, "I am but a rough sailor man, and this is a heavy demand which you make upon me. I am not equal to the emergency." "Of course," said the baroness, tapping him with her fan. "I should have to consider you hopelessly rude were you to agree with me. But you can preserve your neutrality—naval officers are taught to do that, are they not? by telling me what really fine eyes I have. They are fine, are they not?" Thus assisted, Dewey rose to the occasion. The baroness' eyes were, in truth, magnificent.—Washington Post.

Peculiar to Boiler Makers.

"I noticed a peculiarity about a certain class of men not long ago," remarked a life insurance agent, "the cause of which I can't explain. My business not long ago carried me into one of the larger boiler making shops in Memphis, and amid the din of the riveting I tried to talk to one of the men. I raised my voice to the loudest pitch possible, but he was unable to hear me. Finally he said, 'Speak low and I can hear you.' I found he was right. But the evening of the same day I saw the man at his home and found that there, where there was no noise, he could not hear me at all when I spoke in a moderate tone. I had to raise my voice to a very high pitch in order to be understood."

Strength of Insects.

If man were to emulate the common flea, a jump over the dome of St. Paul's would be a trifle to him. If he were as strong as the common horn beetle, he would be able to pick up and carry away two railroad trucks, each loaded with five tons of coal. If he could build like the African termites, quite an ordinary house would overlook the top of Ben Nevis. If he could run as rapidly as one of the small hunting spiders, he could spring a quarter of a mile without trouble and run at the rate of 24 miles a minute—London Standard.

Baldness Can be Cured
Just so long as there is a particle of vitality left in the roots of the hair, the fact that the hair is smooth and shining is no positive proof that the roots beneath are dead. Deep down beneath the skin, hair roots may yet exist, filled with latent vitality, and all that is required to develop them is a beautiful head of hair is the faithful application of the proper agent.

SALT RHEUM CURED BY Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.
JUST SEEN IN TIME.
Eight Skin Eruptions are a Warning of Something More Serious to Come. The only safe way to head the warning, Johnston's Sarsaparilla is the most powerful blood purifier known.
Nature, in her efforts to correct mistakes, which mistakes have come from careless living or it may be from ancestors, shoots out blotches, blotches and other imperfections on the skin, a warning that more serious troubles (perhaps tumors, cancers, erysipelas or pulmonary diseases) are certain to follow if you neglect to heed the warning and correct the mistakes.
Many a lingering, painful disease and many an early death has been avoided simply because these notes of warning have been heeded, and the blood kept pure by a right use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA.
Miss Abbie J. Rande, of Marshall, Mich., writes:
"I was cured of a bad humor after suffering with it for five years. The doctors and my friends said it was salt rheum. It came out on my head, neck and ears, and then on my whole body. I was perfectly raw with it. What I suffered during those five years, is no use telling. Nobody would believe me if I did. I tried every medicine that was advertised to cure it. I spent money enough to buy a house. I heard JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA highly praised. I tried a bottle of it. I began to improve right away, and when I had finished the third bottle I was completely cured. I have never had a touch of it since. I never got any thing to do me the least good till I tried JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. I would heartily advise all who are suffering from humors or skin disease of any kind to try it at once. I had also a good deal of stomach trouble, and was run down and miserable, but JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA made me all right."
The blood is your life and if you keep it pure and strong you can positively resist disease or face contagion fearfully. JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA never fails. It is for sale by all druggists in full quart bottles at only one dollar each.

RAILROAD BUILDING.

A New Line That is Penetrating a Good Section.

Superintendent Frank D. Jones, of the Durham & Charlotte Railway, was seen this morning at the McAdoo by a Telegram man. He says that work has been begun on the extension of his road and a large force of hands employed. The line is now a short one, extending from Gulf, in Chatham county, to a point about a mile west of Cabin creek in Moore county, a distance of twenty-three miles, which is now in operation. It is the object of the company to extend the road from Gulf to Durham and from its present western terminus to Charlotte. It is in this direction that work has just begun again. The grading is within six miles of Star, Montgomery county. Grading and tracklaying are both being pushed now, and Mr. Jones says he expects to have trains running into Star early in the summer.

The road penetrates and undeveloped section of the state. The force is now working in the heart of the famous gold region of western Moore county. That section has long been regarded as rich in mineral deposits of various kinds, and mining operations have from time to time been conducted there with more or less success. The remoteness of the section, however, from railroad advantages, has heretofore been a drawback to successful development.

There are also along the line of this road vast timber resources, pine, oak, hickory and other valuable woods. The hustling lumberman is keeping up, and in some instances getting ahead of the railroad, and pretty soon the miners will be getting out their rusty drills, picks and shovels.

The Witches' Party Last Night.

At the witches' party last night at Mrs. B. C. Sharpe's on Lee street, the witches danced a weird dance and the black cats, owls and little and big folks looked on. After the witches' dance was over ghost stories were told by the grown-up folks. Mrs. B. C. Sharpe received the lady's prize, a witches hat pin, for the best story, and Rev. J. D. Miller the gentleman's prize, a black cat cravat pin.

The witches who danced robed in red, yellow and black were Misses Pattie Gardner, Lena Lee, Kate Johnson, Rosa Wetmore, Emma Sharpe and Annie Glenn.

Horse Dropped Dead.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER PARTY

Given by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Dalton Last Night.

A elegant progressive dinner party was given by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Dalton at their home last evening in honor of their visiting friends, Misses Hall and Lybrook, of Winston, and Miss Lewis, of Raleigh, who assisted the hostess in receiving. At eight o'clock the company was ushered into the dining room, the color scheme of which was pink and white. The rich mahogany table was decorated with bride and bridesmaid roses, while from the shining silver candelabra the soft light shone through the shades with a mingled glow of pink and white. By each plate on the exquisite dainties of Mexican drawn work were dainty dinner cards bearing the name of a guest, and ornamented with hand-painted wild roses. In the center of the table upon a plateau wreathed with Southern smilax was a pyramid of jelly, banded in color with the rose buds and leaves moulded in it.

As each course was served the ladies changed partners, "progressing" to the right, the gentlemen remaining seated.

The following menu was served in course:

Grape Fruit, with Sherry flavor, garnished with Crystallized Fruit.

Oysters on Half-shell, with Lemons, Onions and Celery

Tomato puree, with Crostons.

Broiled Shad, Lemons and Muffins

Chicken Terrapin and Fruit Frappe with beaten biscuits.

Roast duck with peas.

Tomato salad with crackers.

Meringue and whipped cream with cherries.

Cake and loes, in pink rose design.

Coffee and crystallized fruit.

Creme de menthe.

Bonbons. Crackers.

So smoothly and delightfully did the merry party progress that when the company arose from the table a suggestion that the midnight hour was at hand would have met with a prompt and polite protest. After dinner there was dancing.

The guests were: Mr. Sellers with Miss Shober, Mr. Berger with Miss Fry, Mr. John Fariss with Miss Alice Small, Mr. Fowle with Miss Peyton, Mr. J. King with Miss Porter, Mr. Michaux with Miss Staples, Mr. Staples with Miss Lybrook, Mr. Carter with Miss Mebane, Dr. Scott with Miss Waddell, Dr. Turner with Miss Goolbsy, Dr. Roberson with Miss Mebane, Mr. Woodruff with Miss Lewis, Mr. Joe Fariss with Miss Hall.

At a meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Barnabas church held Feb. 22, 1900, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it has pleased our heavenly Father to take to Himself, our loved friend and president,

Resolved, That we, (her R. A. and the Ladies Aid) will, with deepest sorrow, place on record, a testimonial of the esteem, in which she was held, by our organization entire. An organization of which she had been a cherished member two years, our president almost one. From the first entrance into office, (by acclamation given) her sweet gentle nature touched a responsive chord in the hearts of all.

It seemed a delight to her to preside over our meetings, to further the interests of society, and generously respond to the calls. She was gracious, urbane and considerate in manner, these qualities forming the outline of a beautiful character. And united with social gifts and charm, made her popular and beloved by the many with whom she mingled, and by whom her loss is greatly deplored. More crushingly though comes the blow to her home circle—the loved ones, to whom our friend was always a light, a blessing and vision of gladness. The loved ones that so sadly miss her ministry and care.

Resolved, That to them, their Rector, and the members of the society, deprived of their President, tendered unfeigned sympathy. Commending them to a Beneficent Father, who only can sustain and comfort them, in this, their hour of trial.

Further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, be sent the family, a copy be placed in the minutes of the society, and published in the Daily Record and the Evening Telegram.

Officers Pearce and Gates succeeded in capturing Mary Johnson about five o'clock yesterday afternoon. She is the negro woman who stabbed like Dean yesterday. The stabbing took place in what is known as "Duplin" and Mary was captured several hours later over in Warrersville. The officers kept her pretty well shadowed and although she dodged about among the small houses in Warrersville, she was finally cornered and with Pearce in close pursuit she suddenly turned a sharp curve and ran against Gates, who fastened her and she was taken to jail in Winston today.

Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity. They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price, is now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff.
